Rules that save most applicants

1. Only six subject areas count: education, sustainable energy, food security and agriculture, health sciences, STEM and climate. Social sciences and medical sciences do not count.

2. There is no monthly cash stipend. The award pays tuition, hostel costs, travel home twice a year and research funds for masters students only.

3. If your university admission comes after the deadline, you can apply without the letter and receive a conditional offer, confirmed only when you submit proof of admission.
